SANTA SAYS HE'S COMING TO CITY

hand but so many are received now that we use typewriters. My friends would enjoy seeing my Eskimo helpers operating these new fangled machines.

Yes, things have changed a lot down your way in the last ten years. You know it used to be that I could wait until Christmas eve, hitch up my faithful reindeer, slide down the chimneys and have plenty of time to spare in making all the rounds.

But now things are different and even I can't carry everything on one trip. So I am planning to leave here within a few days. I'm going to take my finest toys and things along first and I'm going to let my friends in the stores put these toys and presents on exhibit from now until Christmas when I'll have to call for them again.

Even as I write you gifts are being packed and I should be able to leave in a few days although that will depend on how soon we finish up.

Seeing that you were thoughtful enough to write me, I'm going to try and visit Appleton on this first trip although I can't tell yet whether I'll be there or not for sure and if I do come I don't know yet when I'll arrive. It may be in the middle of the night and it may be in broad daylight. That all depends.

But every elf and Eskimo in Cringle Valley is so hard at work today and there are so many things to look after that I'll have to write you again before I leave if I can find the time. Anyway please extend my greetings to all my little friends in Appleton and tell them that Santa has been working hard than ever so he can remember all good boys and girls this year.

Your old friend, Santa Claus.

So there is a Santa Claus and he may come to Appleton on his first trip to stock the stores with his Christmas things—he says so in his own letter. We're all hoping he decides to come. Don't you? We'll certainly be watching closely to see if there's another letter for us tomorrow from Cringle Valley.

TEACHERS DISCUSS AIMS OF EDUCATION

Mentors Turn Down Proposal to Make Dolls for Japanese Festival

The Cardinal Aims of Education were discussed at the meeting of the fifth and sixth grade teachers with the superintendent of schools Monday afternoon. The points were made in a report by the Reviewing Committee of the National Educational association commission on Reorganization of Secondary Education as published in the United States Bureau of Education No. 25 in 1918.

Such aims as health, mental processes, worthy home membership, vacation, citizenship, the worthy use of leisure, ethical character. These were brought out following a talk on oral reading by Superintendent R. J. Rohan. A new plan probably will be introduced into the upper grades and the work will be started in the sixth grade class of Miss Kathleen Kimball of the Lincoln school.

Children will be assigned to give reading selections one day a week. These will be chosen by the pupil and will be prepared with the assistance of the teacher before presentation. Constructive enterprises will be offered by the other pupils, and a plan of grading by the children probably will be adopted.

The selections will be chosen with reference to their adaptability for reading aloud and for interest to the pupils. They may be taken from any book, either the reader of the pupils or another, it was said. If the plan works successfully it will be started in other grades and in other schools.

Dolls as messengers of friendship from American children to Japanese will not be sent from the Appleton schools, it was decided after a report by Miss Magdalene Kohl, principal of the Washington school. The expense of the proposition was too great to be paid by the children, the teachers believed, as the dolls desired by the national committee appointed to take charge of the work would cost from $5 to $6. The plan suggested was that each grade of fifth and sixth status would send a doll for the Japanese doll festival in an attempt to create good will and friendship between the children of the two countries.

RULE SIGNS ORDERS DESPITE FRAC.URE OF HIS RIGHT ARM

With his right arm bound up in a sling and his left cheek scratched, Mayor Albert C. Rule appeared at his office in the city hall Wednesday morning, took off his coat (with the aid of another city official) and plunged into his work with a vigor surprising for one nursing injuries such as his. His fall from a 12-foot ladder Sunday, which resulted in a fracture of his arm and several bruises on his body, didn't seem to bother him much—not very much.

The first thing he did was to sign a number of orders and checks, but despite his inability to use his right arm, he experienced no difficulty in affixing his honor's signature on the dotted lines. One order after the other passed under the mayor's pen; in fact he did not appear to be laboring under any handicap whatever.

Mayor Rule, you know, is a "southpaw." He couldn't write with his right hand if he had to—if he would have you read his penmanship.

WATER DEPARTMENT SEEKING $65,000

Commission Will Ask Council for This Sum to Carry Out Improvements

A request that $65,000 be inserted into the city's 1927 budget for the water department probably will be presented to the common council at its regular meeting Wednesday night. This sum will be needed if the department is to carry out its expansion program at the water plant next year in addition its regular program, it was decided Tuesday afternoon at a meeting of the water commission.

Expansion of the water plant was authorized by the council at its first regular meeting of the month. The improvements will consist chiefly of construction of new settling basins and walls.

Action on bids for a new one and one-half ton truck was deferred and the assistant secretary instructed to determine from the bidders the trade-in value on the truck now in use. Final action probably will be taken at the next meeting.

The payroll of $1,120.76 and general vouchers were totalling $3,218.39 were allowed.

FIVE H. S. BOYS GET NEW KIND OF LETTERS

Twenty football letters were awarded to Appleton high school boys by Coach Joseph Shields at a general assembly meeting at the school Monday afternoon. Five "Athletic A's" were given to boys who have attended practice faithfully but have not played a sufficient number of games to receive a regular varsity "A," the coach explained.

"A's" were awarded to Clarence Hartung, Charles Schafer, Reuben Gieschow, Norbert Profferty, Carl Kunitz, Kenneth Laird, Alois Liethen, Herbert Lutz, Chester Johnson, Lawrence Witzke, Orville Strutz, Albert Cookson, Melvin Heinritz and George Popp. Athletic "A's" went to Paul Gelke, Vernon Holderman, Ferdinand Rankin, Robert Roemer, and Howard Claiborne. Student manager Francis Rooney received the manager's "A."

The new award is distinguished from the varsity "A" by two smaller "A's" on either side of the large letter, and the manager's by a small "M" beneath the "A." Certificates were presented with the letters to vouch for their bona fide ownership. These were signed by the coach and H. H. Helble, principal.

BE CAREFUL HOW YOU CHOOSE YOUR ANTI-FREEZE DOPE

Alcohol and Glycerine Probably Are Best for Cold Weather Driving

BY ISRAEL KLEIN
What to add to the cooling system to keep the water from freezing in cold weather is just as great a puzzle this year as last.
Liquids of all kinds are suggested, canned anti-freeze solutions advertised, yet advantages and disadvantages of each make it a problem for the motorist to know what to use. The best way to solve this is to consider all through day and night, and glycerine or glycol for other parts.

This choice is based on a list of requirements engineers have set out for anti-freeze solutions. These are: The liquid must have a low freezing point, must cause no harm to the cooling system through solvent action or corrosion, circulate freely at the lowest operating temperature, boil without decomposition near the boiling point of water, have high heat capacity, be readily obtainable at reasonable price and be non-inflammable.

Plenty Of Turkeys For Every Family This Year

Shades of pumpkin pie and cranberry sauce!
There will be an over supply of turkeys this year and the market price probably will be lower than it has been for years. All hail to the poultry raisers. Even the poorest family will now be able to buy a turkey and enjoy Thanksgiving day in the old fashioned way.
According to local butchers, the local market price is determined largely by the Chicago markets. Chicago buyers are paying 40 cents per pound for dressed No. 1 turkeys. In Appleton the merchants are paying 43 cents. This means they will sell at retail from 48 to 53 cents per pound.
Information compiled by the Butchers' and Packers' Gazette reveals that in many parts of the United States there is an over supply of turkeys. In Texas, which is the leading producing state, there was an estimated increase of 15 per cent over the crop of last year.
In spite of the poor weather conditions this year, however, there is

JANITOR PASSES CIGARS WHEN HIS PAY IS RAISED

Jack Newman, custodian of the courthouse, expressed his appreciation for a raise in salary in concrete form at the board session Tuesday when he presented the county board of super-

a plentiful supply of turkeys in the vicinity of Appleton.
Other poultry also is plentiful and local butchers are paying 20 cents per pound for dressed geese, 28 cents for dressed duck and 25 cents for dressed chicken. The retail prices will be about 25 to 28 cents a pound for geese, about 30 to 33 cents for ducks and 25 to 33 cents for chickens.

LIST GIVES RIGHT PROPORTIONS

Following table shows what parts of either glycerine or denatured alcohol should be used with the water in your car's cooling system to keep it from freezing at designated temperatures:

types of anti-freeze liquids and to apply that which is most appropriate for the conditions under which each driver finds himself.

Winter conditions in the south are much different from winter in the north, so that each territory must have individual attention even in the matter of filling the radiator.

For example, trouble from alcohol evaporation is more likely in the south, where the days are comparatively warm and the nights cold. Sudden change may leave an unprotected cooling system and may cause freezing and bursting of the cylinder jackets.

In the south, therefore, a liquid like glycerine would be more practicable. In the north, the alcohol solution would be cheaper.

MAKE SUITABLE CHOICE
For each case, however, the advantages and disadvantages of all types of anti-freezes should be weighed. And when one is finally chosen, measures should be taken to cope with its failings.

Glycerine, for instance, does not evaporate, but its cost is high and it has a tendency to open up the joints of the cooling system by thinning the gaskets and hose, and thus leaking through.

To avoid this, two antidotes may be used. Either pour in a can of radiator liquid with the glycerine solution, to avoid leakage, or pour a pint of cylinder oil on top of the radiator water before draining the radiator.

As the water is drained the oil will form a film over the whole interior surface of the radiator and its connections, which will prevent the glycerine to penetrate the joints. Then the water and glycerine solution may be poured into the cooling system.

After running the engine a while with the glycerine in it, tighten the cylinder head bolts and the hose clamps.

ALCOHOL NEEDS REFILLING
There is nothing to do for alcohol, except refill it regularly as it evaporates. Its cheapness makes up for the waste.

Many other liquids and anti-freezes have been suggested from time to time, but none to compare with glycerine and alcohol. Glycol is merely a compound form of the pure glycerine, and is just as good as well as easily.

A combination of alcohol and glycerine is used at times, but their faults remain.

Even lubricating oils have been tried as anti-freezing material. But they can't retain as much heat as water, and begin to harden at the least drop of the thermometer. Staring in cold weather would be almost impossible.

Kerosene is suggested, but its heat capacity is low also. Even common table salt has been used, but it would corrode every bit of metal with which it came into contact.

OTHER LIQUIDS FAULTY
Other solutions are faulty which are even higher in viscosity or congealing quality than oil; various sugar solutions which have the same disadvantage; magnesium of calcium chloride; whose faults are those of common salt solutions; and menthol, a form of alcohol with highly poisonous fumes.

The choice resolves itself, therefore, to denatured alcohol for territories where the cold weather is even

COMB SAGE TEA INTO GRAY HAIR

Common garden sage brewed into a heavy tea, with sulphur and alcohol added, will turn gray, streaked and faded hair beautifully dark and luxuriant. Mixing the Sage Tea and Sulphur recipe at home, though, is troublesome. An easier way is to get the ready-to-use preparation improved by the addition of other ingredients. It is known as Wyeth's Sage & Sulphur Compound and can be obtained at all drug stores for only 75 cents a bottle.

While gray faded hair is not sinful, we all desire to retain our youthful appearance and attractiveness. By darkening your hair with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound, no one can tell, because it does it so naturally, so evenly. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning all gray hairs have disappeared. After another application or two your hair becomes beautifully dark, glossy, soft and luxuriant and you appear years younger.

TAXPAYERS GET $2.50 SHOW FREE AT TAX MEETINGS

Finance Committee Convinced That "Suggestion Conferences" Are Fizzles

Taking the tax problem direct to the taxpayers for suggestions for ways in which taxes could be reduced cost the county approximately $140 for two gatherings and netted virtually nothing in the way of constructive criticism.

A generous attendance figure would give both meetings less than a total of 60 persons present so seeking direct suggestions on taxes apparently costs nearly $2.50 for each individual, it was pointed out. The bill of per diem and mileage for the finance committee, under whose auspices the gatherings were staged, was filed with the county board Monday afternoon.

It is considered highly improbable that such meetings will be attempted in the future.

The meetings were not held at the suggestion of the finance committee members stoutly deny responsibility for what transpired when an entire lack of general interest was evinced by the taxpayers at Stephensville and Seymour where the gatherings were held.

A resolution, it was brought out, was adopted at the April session of the board calling upon the finance committee to arrange a series of meetings for the discussion of tax problems in various sections of the county.

The results at Stephensville and Seymour, believed representative of two widely separated districts, convinced the committee that Outagamie county taxpayers are comparatively satisfied with conditions and county management.

The report was referred to the committee on general accounts.

Deny New Commission Would Endanger Fishing Rights

Establishment of a new, unpaid commission of six men to handle the conservation program of the state to replace the present commission will not endanger the all year around hook and line fishing privileges enjoyed by persons living in the Fox river valley, according to Mark Catlin, local attorney. In a recent statement issued by Charles F. Hart, Oshkosh, president of the Fox River Valley Fish and Game association, he expressed his opposition to a new commission and also signified his intention of leading the fight against it.

Mr. Hart bases his objection on the grounds that the sportsmen in other parts of Wisconsin are jealous of the privilege of all year around hook and line fishing enjoyed by fishermen of the valley.

"The new six man commission might easily be made up of members unfavorable to the Fox river valley interests and the result would be that hook and line fishing could be arbitrarily closed in this section for a long period each year," Mr. Hart said.

Mr. Hart declares that a provision would give the new commission the power to "establish open or closed season on any species of game or fish in any specific locality or localities."

"The new commission would not be vested with such power," Mr. Catlin said. "The state legislature only has power to make changes in the law. Furthermore I see no reason why people of the Fox river valley should enjoy privileges not held by the rest of the people in the state merely because of the favorable location. I believe all people should be treated alike. Hook and line fishing all year around in the valley is rapidly depleting the supply of fish in spite of the fact that enthusiasts say otherwise."

MODERN LIFE BAR TO CREATIVE WORK

Inventor Is Regarded as Freak in This Standardized Age, Students Told

Our present highly standardized mode of living and the intricate organization of modern society are two of the greatest bars to creative work, Dr. Rollo Walter Brown, former exchange professor of Harvard university and a lecturer of international repute, declared here.

"The only way life changes is through creation," Dr. Brown declared, "and first among the factors opposing creation is our standardized mode of living. Because a person is a variant, and a creator, he is regarded by society as a freak or even an insane person."

Life today is so highly organized, he said, that it is very difficult for the creator, who is not of the organized type, to get "into the swim," with his creations.

Who Owns the Standard Oil Company? (Indiana)

Who owns, and in the end who controls the Standard Oil Company (Indiana)?

The ownership is vested in between 50 and 60 thousand individuals and organizations, no one of whom owns as much as 5 1/4% of the Capital Stock. Nearly eighteen thousand of these stock owners, also are employees, doing the homely, everyday duties which have been assigned to them.

The Standard Oil Company (Indiana) is a company of men and women who work. The men holding the most important positions in the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) are qualified for them by an extraordinary capacity for work.

Family or money or "pull" have no place in the scheme of promotion in the Standard Oil Company (Indiana). There are no "promotion plums" in the way of "soft" jobs to be handed out. There is no place in the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) for laziness or incompetence.

The Board of Directors of the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) is an executive body which, to a man, knows its affairs intimately through day-to-day working contact with them.

All of the Directors are company employees. Most of them started well down the ladder. They came up from the ranks doing the common job so uncommonly well that nothing could stop their advancement.

Eighteen thousand of the 50,000 "capitalists" behind the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) have so definite an interest in the advancement and efficiency of the Company as to constitute an army of enthusiasts, wise, thrifty, industrious; rich in their capacity for living life to the full, knowing the satisfaction of work and the pleasure of play, realizing the thrill of providing for those they love by careful saving and investing.

They constitute a loyal ambitious group who have seized the opportunity offered by the company of becoming partners in the business. The Employees' Stock Purchasing Plans have been to them an incentive to save and an inspiration to work.

They have shown their appreciation of the company's interest in them by an enthusiasm and efficiency that helps to build enduring progress.

The purpose of the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) to serve the thirty million people of the Middle West is a large purpose with large demands.

It requires capitalists in overalls—every man in the entire organization working—every man doing his job to the very best of his ability.

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

JUDITH MARTIN, a teacher, and ERIC WATERS, a student, in Pendleton University, escape from a raid in a roadhouse where they have been dining. Judith finds shelter in a cabin while Eric returns to town.

MYRA ALDRICH, in love with Eric, hints that Judith stayed out all night to DR. PETER DORN, astronomy professor who admires Judith.

Eric takes Judith on a moonlight hike with EVE GERHART, fascinating town widow, WILL WETHEREL, a frat brother, and others.

Eric wanders off and gets drunk under a tree when Wetherel pays too much attention to Judith. "Kitty" Shea, an unsavory character, appears by the bonfire after the other hikers have started down the hill for home. Judith is forced to let him take her and the unconscious Eric back to town in his car.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XV

Neither of them spoke but Myra snapped off the flashlight and ran past Judith up the stairs.

In her room, Judith listened to the noisy departure of Shea's car and then gave way to tears.

An unusual aroma in the room when she awoke next morning puzzled her. But when she had jumped out of bed and crossed the room to the dressing table it was explained. Her coat, lying over a chair reeked with wood smoke. The odor brought back the memory of the night's escapade.

She dressed languidly and tried to disguise the pallor and creased eyes which told the tale of the last night's experience. But she was conscious of curious glances as she took her seat at table.

Myra was already there, chattering with Miss McGonigle about the decoration of their rooms. Caroline McCann favored lavender curtains and Gonigle favored to pay for them by "ditching" her Y. W. C. A. dues that month.

"I want a Maxfield Parrish picture and a little plaster bust of Shelley, too," she said. "I know where I can get the Shelley cheap. It's sitting with a lot of Kewpies dressed in gold lace on a bargain table at Jarussek's art store."

"Well," said Myra, "what I want is no old poet, but a French doll with gorgeous dissipated eyes and a world-weary look. But they're imports and they cost ten dollars. I'm already overdrawn at the bank."

Sissie Dean burst into the room. "Whoopie-ee!" she cried. Miss Steadway frowned over her coffee cup. "Convocation today," said Sissie. "No Saturday classes." She sat down with a jolt against the table that set the cups rattling.

"More news, too. Dean Brown's got a line on the mysterious couple that sneaked out of the Blue Moon raid the other night. The officers were sure there was someone in the back room when they entered the place."

"Oo!" squealed Caroline. "How'd he find out?"

"The man came back to town alone, walking along the Granville road a couple of hours later. There were patrolmen on the road who saw him, but they couldn't stop him for they had no charge against him. But the dean claims he knows who he was."

Judith caught Myra looking at her triumphantly and seized the first chance to leave the table.

Her room was in confusion from the hasty dressing of the night before. She began listlessly to straighten it. A time table lying among the books and papers on her desk caught her eye. She picked it up, idly ruffling its pages.

"Saturday special for Middleburg leaves 10:50 a. m." The black type seemed to stand out with special significance. She whirled about and made for the closet. Dragging her suit case out, she began to throw garments into it. The small clock on the dresser said ten o'clock.

Lillian Steadway stopped her in her flight down the steps, while the taxicab waited. "A Mr. Waters has been calling you. I thought you had left the house. But I told him I'd ask you to call."

"If he phones again," said Judith, "tell him I've gone to Middleburg for the week end." She ran out and slammed the door.

"I've only fifteen minutes to make the westbound train," she cried to the taxi driver. They sat off at a reckless pace toward the station. Judith sat with her watch in her hand as they swung into the business district. "Hurry, please," she cried to the driver above the roar of the engine. "I've got to get out of town on that Middleburg train."

He looked at her curiously and stolidly faced his wheel again.

"Lard-a-massy, what's youah rush?" asked the small negro porter as the cab wheeled up to the station platform. "Dat westbound am a half hour late."

Judith followed him into the station and bought her ticket. She was panting with the excitement of the race. When she reached the track platform the porter set her bags down beside her and thrust out his hand for a tip. In her abstraction she gave him a silver dollar and the boy gaped.

A cold drizzle began to fall and Judith moved nearer the baggage shed for shelter. Beneath its eaves she ran unceremoniously into a man and woman standing under a large cotton umbrella. The umbrella bobbed back to reveal the dismayed face of Dean Timothy Brown.

"I beg your pardon," said Judith. The dean bowed stiffly. "How do you do, Miss Martin? I think you have met my wife."

"Yes," said Judith, "at the president's tea."

"Are you going to the city?" the dean continued.

Judith nodded. "For two days. I've been quite stale lately and thought a change of scenery might do me good. There's a musical comedy in Middleburg that I want to see. I want to forget schoolteaching for the whole week end."

The dean raised his eyebrows. "Mrs. Brown is taking the Middleburg train, too, but she will stop at Roxville to visit relatives."

Mrs. Brown was looking at the brick pavement. She had made no move toward entering the conversation.

"I shall be glad to have someone to talk to," said Judith. Mrs. Brown made no response.

As a man passed behind Judith, the dean's wife started slightly. Judith looked around and the dean looked, too.

"Good morning, Judy," said Kitty Shea, thrusting his thumbs into the armholes of a green and white vest and grinning.

Judith nodded. She could not speak. The dean's eyes were on her and the dean's wife was looking at Shea blankly.

There was an awkward moment as the man hunched his trousers up and walked carelessly away.

The train whistle down the track shrieked just then and Judith picked up her traveling bag. The dean reached for it but she declined the service and he walked to the train between the two women, trying to shelter both under his umbrella.

"Goodbye, my dear," he said to his wife. She repeated the farewell tonelessly. Judith noticed that she did not kiss her husband, nor did he offer her a salute.

He established the min a seat which two shouting freshmen were about to pounce upon. The freshmen gave him a resentful look and slouched away.

The dean put a ticket in his wife's hand and cautioned her not to lose it with the manner of a father instructing his small child. His broad brown back retreated down the aisle and the two women looked at each other.

Judith smiled. "You don't know what a relief it is to get away for a couple of days from the school teacher role," she said impulsively. The dean's wife looked at her with questioning in her eyes.

"Are you visit friends, Miss Martin?" Her voice seemed slightly anxious.

"No," said Judith. "I don't know a soul in Middleburg. That's why I'm going there for a rest. I mean to get a room at the best hotel and play grand dame for two days."

The dean's wife turned her pale face toward the girl. "What hotel do you consider the best?"

"Oh, the Chamberlin," Judith answered lightly.

The conversation flagged. Mrs. Brown sat moodily looking out the window and Judith tried to read a magazine.

After a time the dean's wife rose. "If you will excuse me, Miss Martin, I think I will go into the next car. I saw one of my neighbors get into it at the Pendleton station and I'd like to talk to her for a few minutes."

Judith nodded and rose to let her pass. It was possibly a half hour later that a porter came to Judith. "Mrs. Brown sent me after her baggage, miss," he explained. "Said she guessed she wouldn't get back in here to see you again. We're gettin' near her destination."

Judith was submerged in her magazine when the train pulled into Roxville. She did not look up until they were speeding away from the station again.

Middleburg was busy in the outskirts. Ambitious way that middle western cities affect. Judith found its streets

DON'T TAMPER WITH HIGHWAY LAWS, BOARD ADVISES LEGISLATURE

A resolution advising the legislature that it let well enough alone and give existing state road building and maintenance laws a chance to demonstrate their value was adopted by the county board of supervisors Tuesday. The current gas tax was approved as was the disposition of state aid funds as outlined in the state highway commission tentative program for 1927. The communication will be forwarded to the legislature. The resolution advises that present motor vehicle tax levies are sufficiently high and should not be tampered with.

noisy and crowded as her taxi crawled toward the Chamberlain hotel.

A shoe dealers' convention had monopolized all the rooms at this hostelry and Judith sought a lodging at the second best hotel two blocks farther uptown. She noticed that the theater she wished to attend that night was less than a block away.

Jazz music from the hotel cafe drifted into her room as she dressed at seven o'clock. The white-tiled bath and thick carpet sand large mirror seemed particularly delightful after the meager comforts of the Steadway household.

There was just time to snatch a sandwich in the coffee room before going to the theater. Judith stepped into an evening gilder of Walnut street humming a little tune of contentment.

The magic of the playhouse swallowed her up as she stepped under its brilliant archway, with the melodies of the revue still singing in her ears. Judith went out again and turned her steps toward the hotel. The night had turned off clear and cold, with the first hint that October's radiance was slipping away before the searching winds of November.

In the lobby of the hotel Judith stopped a moment. The gay dance music still sounded from the cafe. She powdered her nose and turned toward the dining room. The head waiter found her a small table near the balcony and sent a man to take her order. Judith studied the menu.

When she looked up from it two persons were taking seats at the next table. One of them was the dean's wife. The other was a young and personable man, who bent to remove her wrap with deft, caressing hands.

Dean Brown's wife finds a friend in Judith in the next chapter, and Judith, to keep from betraying her, gets in trouble herself.

Beare Pours Mean Flask For Merry Guests Of King

BY MILTON BRONNER

London—E. E. Beare has the most unique job in Great Britain, if not in the world. And in this job he performs for England a service directly opposite to the duties in the United States of General Lincoln C. Andrews, the prohibition administrator.

It's Beare's task to see that visitors enjoy themselves. It's Andrews' to see that people don't have the very kind of "good time" which Beare encourages.

Andrews and his merry men pursue and destroy alcoholic beverages whether they be real or bootleg. Beare nurses and cherishes rare old vintages as if they were beyond price. Wherefore most people are tickled to death to be Beare's guests. Andrews isn't renowned as a host.

DRAFTED FROM ARMY

For while General Andrews, an old army officer, was taken by the president to be the chief hooch chaser, Beare was taken from the British navy to help distinguished people chase real hooch down their parched throats. Both are treasury employees.

Attached to the British Treasury Department there is a branch officially known as "Government Hospitality." Beare is the secretary and that means he is the boss.

If, for instance, President Coolidge were to come to England to discuss some international matter with Premier Baldwin, the king, Beare would innately get busy. He'd confer with the American Embassy and the first thing he'd know, the president would be all booked up for dinners and luncheons at Lancaster House where the government dines distinguished sojourners.

When the president is a drinking man, it would be Beare's job to find out just what kinds of wines he liked. They'd be on the table. So would the right kind of cigars.

Beare was recently about the busiest man in London, seeing that the premiers of the dominions at the British Imperial Conference had a good time.

But the apple of his eye is the cel-

MEASURE VALUE OF CLUB BY SERVICE IT GIVES

A. G. Campbell, Paul Bowman, C. R. Fuminger and Harold Finger were initiated into the Y's Men's club at the regular meeting Monday evening at the Y. M. C. A. The Rev. T. P. Hilbourne of Kaukauna talked to the club members and a business meeting completed the evening's program. A special meeting of the executive meeting followed the regular session.

John Trautman was chairman of the meeting.

Mr. Hilbourne spoke on "What Are You Worth?" His talk dealt with the worth of a club, such as the Y's Men's group, to Appleton, to the state and to the Y. M. C. A. He said that the worth of the club to the city, state and association, was measured by the amount of service it gives. Life is not worthwhile when a person lives for self alone but only when he adds others to live by service to them, he concluded.

RELIC OF PENN'S TREATY ELM OFFERED TO SOCIETY

Sturgis, Michigan.—"I am very thankful for what your medicine has done for me and have recommended it to others. I took it to give me strength before my baby was born. I would have to stop work and lie down sometimes all the afternoon. I felt as if I did not care whether anything was done or not. I got tired out so easily. One day I found a little book on my porch and that night I showed it to my husband and he went down town and got me a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. This medicine has helped me so much that I was soon able to do my work, and when my baby was born, my nurse, Mrs. Forbes, said it was the easiest birth she had ever attended. I will be more than pleased if I am helping someone else by giving my testimonial.—Mrs. EDWARD PERSSON, 2021 Surprise Ave., Sturgis, Michigan.

HEAD OF COUNTY SCHOOLS APPEALS FOR SALARY BOOST

Should Be Paid Same as City Superintendent, Meeting Tells Board

Arguing that city members have no voice in the fixing of the salary of the county superintendent of schools Supervisor John Tracy on Tuesday proposed that the resolution adopted by the salary committee at the Monday meeting be reopened.

Chairman Mike Mack appointed a special committee composed of Supervisors John Dietrich, P. T. Carpenter and Edwin Martin to investigate and report back to the board.

At the conclusion of his annual report on the floor Monday afternoon Superintendent A. G. Meating made a strong appeal to the executive body to raise his salary to the level of the city superintendent of schools.

Circumstances were such Monday that the annual report of the salary committee had been brought up for adoption and was accepted just prior to Mr. Meating's appearance. His stipend was set at $2,500.

This sum, Mr. Meating declared, does not recognize efficient service and the confidence placed in his office by the supervisors. The city of Appleton has one large school district and 171 teachers under its head while Mr. Meating has many districts and 174 teachers, he said.

The city superintendent, Mr. Meating asserted, receives almost twice the salary of the county school executive. No discussion followed the appointment of the committee.

WILD HORSES SAVE MIX FROM DESPERADO GANG

Manager Knospe's announcement that the New Bijou Theatre will show "Tony Runs Wild," Fox Films latest Tom Mix production, from Thursday to Saturday assures Appleton a chance to see some of America's most rugged scenery as the background for daring feats of horsemanship that test the strength, skill and courage of both the horse and rider.
The picture was filmed in the mountains of Arizona, in the Apache trail district. This is the most rugged and beautiful of the mountain districts in America. Along this picturesque road are famous gold and copper mines, famous cattle ranches and the Cliff Dwellings, where lived a race that has long since vanished from the world.
"Tony" is shown as a wild horse that is captured, tamed and then released. In the final scene he leads his wild band through a canyon and tramples to death the desperadoes who are shooting at his master from all sides.

Mix in this production does most of his riding on "Pronto," a horse almost as famous as "Tony."
Other than Mix the cast includes Jacqueline Logan, feminine lead, Lawford Davidson, Duke Lee, Vivian Oakland, Edward Martindale, Marion Harlan, Raymond Wells, Jack Padlan, Arthur Morrison and Martin Faust.

Nervous and Weak, First Bottle Vinol Helps

"I was nervous and weak, and for 8 years I wasn't able to work. I tried everything until a friend told me about Vinol. The first bottle helped me and today I am well."—Mrs. F. A. Herkey.
Most weak, nervous women are suffering from lack of hemoglobin in the blood, causing loss of weight, poor appetite, nervous headaches, sleeplessness and a tired, hopeless feeling. The very first week you take Vinol, the life-giving hemoglobin in your blood will begin to increase. Soon you feel stronger, eat better and sleep better. Just ONE bottle often gives surprising results, though more should be taken in obstinate cases.
Vinol has been prescribed for over 25 years for weak, nervous women, run-down men and sickly children. A simple iron and cod liver compound very pleasant to take.

BLUES SETTLE DOWN TO WORK TO CLINCH LEAGUE TITLE

Catlinmen Must Win Saturday To Claim Tie For Loop Title

Seven Stars Close Blue Grid Careers With Chance to Earn Gold Footballs

With the words, "We must beat Northwestern to hold a tie for that first Wisconsin-Illinois championship" being drummed into their ears by Coach Mark Catlin and his tireless staff of assistants, the college's Blue backs settled down to their first hard practice of the week Tuesday afternoon. The practice was only the start of a hard grind which will end with a slight sigh of relief Friday afternoon.

Now that he has the tie for the conference title in his grasp after a disastrous start which threatened to wreck the entire season, Coach Catlin is determined not to let that unknown factor between the cup and the lip enter the battle. His playing position will practice as hard as ever this week, in spite of being favorites over the Lutherans, and the grid will not be over until enough markers have been scored to make Saturday's game, and with it the league title, safe for the Blues.

The Catlinmen realize that on a field such as last Saturday's battle at body's and that a desperately fighting team can turn back a foe stronger on paper as was the case then. If Northwestern is able to get that tie, the Blue win will be only fair on a muddy down which it has scored on every team played so far this year including Carroll and Ripon, hopes for a field as the Lutherans then can hold the Catlinmen off by a hard defensive and kicking battle.

Every man on the Blue squad is fit for the game in spite of the hard Carl roll fight and the lineup probably will see every regular in position. Hipke will start at center, Weinkauff and Steensland or Schaefer at guards; Capt. Counsel and Ott at tackles; Jessup and Hillman at ends; Bessie, E. Hoffmann, Nason and Bloomer in the rear wall.

The game will be the last in which Bayer, Counsel, Nason, Weinkauff, Bessie, Hillman and Hipke, will play for the Blue as most of these men graduate this spring while others complete their third years of collegiate play with the Saturday game. These men all are sure to battle their hardest and each will desire to end his collegiate grid career as the proud wearer of the little gold football, emblematic of conference supremacy. This will not be their lot unless Northwestern is forced to take a defeat.

APPLETON MEN AT HOCKEY MEETING

Local Team May Enter Valley Ice Loop; Meeting at Neenah Wednesday

Appleton will be represented at the meeting which will be held Wednesday evening at Neenah to make arrangements for organizing a 1926-27 Fox River Valley Hockey League. Whether Appleton will enter a team in the loop still is uncertain though this city probably will be represented by some squad.

Last year the Schlager-Galpin Maroons, representing Appleton, were leading the league by a wide margin and the other teams protested several games on alleged technicalities. When the local team refused to play the games over under conditions much to their disadvantage, the three other squads voted to put Appleton out of the loop. Because of this the local players of last year made no effort to get into a loop, though they were the prime movers for the last two winters. The management of the local team of last winter will not attend the meeting, but it is expected that an Appleton team will be present and a new team composed of some members of the 1925-26 squad may be placed in the loop.

Other teams which will enter teams are Neenah, Menasha and Oshkosh, all entrants last year, Kaukauna and possibly Kimberly or Green Bay. The meeting will be held at Neenah city hall.

Portland, Ore.—Joe Anderson, Covington, beat Eddie Roberts, Tacoma (9).

Elmer Vada, Cleveland, knocked out Bill Galvin, Jacksonville (4).

Badgers Polish Aerial Attack For Stag Squad

Madison—(P)—Having hit a consistent stride in their victory over Iowa Saturday, the Wisconsin varsity entered into the final period of hard work in preparation for the season's close against Chicago this weekend.

The official attack that scored three touchdowns against the heavy Hawkeye team, continued to receive the finishing touches of Coach Little and his assistants, and indications were that the Maroons would have to stop the aerial troops in order to hold the Badgers to a close game.

Quarried by Northwestern and a long list of conference defeats lying in their wake, the Chicago team is expected to meet with their backs to the wall in hopes of ending the 1926 season with a win over their northern rivals.

Reading the strategy of Coach Little and the Maroons' periodical custom of upsetting the dope each year in some contest the Badger men, warned the team against overconfidence. Only a light workout was taken yesterday but scrimmage and long drills constitute the program throughout the remainder of the week.

In addition to the "All-American" squad, the Badger team will be accompanied by more than three thousand members of the student body who will make their annual pilgrimage to Chicago's south side. Special trains will carry the Badger players. The backfield combination of Rose, Crofoot, Capt. Harmon and Kresky that functioned so smoothly against the Hawkeyes will probably start against the Maroons with the possibility that the veterans of the Badger team who end their college career Saturday will also perform during part of the matinee. In the latter list is included Capt. Harmon, Baumann, Burrus, Leith, Strubel, Kreuz, Kassak, Wilke, McGovern and Larson. Badger will be able to complete the season with three victories, two defeats and one tie. Fight other Big Ten teams will swing into action Saturday in the first weekend devoted exclusively to battling each other.

HE'S ALL-AMERICAN CALIBER

During his many years of coaching at Yale, Iowa and Southern California, Howard Jones has developed 11 stars, rated All-American. He is confident he has No. 15 in Morton Kaer, nicknamed "Devil-May" Kaer, because of the reckless manner in which he handles the opposing lines. Kaer is a backfield star, a tripple threat man, who has been one of the leading point scorers of the country for the last two years. Coach Jones says Kaer is outstanding among the backs that have played under him during his long career.

Two Dollars, Free Ride, Ticket To All-Americans

Madison—(P)—Two dollars, a free ride and a ticket now comes to the "All-Americans" at the University of Wisconsin as compensation for their grueling hours on the gridiron in the role of door mats.

The ineligible and unsung squad awaits the curtain on a season spent in battling the varsity, climaxing with a trip to the Chicago game this weekend. Expenses are paid by the university. On special cars the thirty odd players will entrain and a seat in the stands awaits them at kickoff time. An additional two dollars is given to the mas an "entertainment fund" amid the big city sights.

Throughout the remainder of this week the squad will duplicate Coach Alonzo Staggs' Maroons, but on Friday the torn and tattered gridiron garments will be locked away as the annual pilgrimage to Chicago starts.

Another year may find a few of the "All-American" performers in varsity uniform. Other "veterans," still finding the heights of scholastic achievement unobtainable, will again join the ranks of the studiously unfit.

Although the personal of the squad is composed mostly of the scholastically weak or transfers from other schools, several stalwarts are groomed for varsity service through the medium of the traditional team. Of ten through the season the varsity is held on even terms.

NORTH DAKOTA Foe OF M. U. SATURDAY

Strong Oregon Aggies Complete Golden Avalanche Schedule Turkey Day

Madison—Two games remain on the 1926 home schedule of the Marquette university Golden Avalanche, and one promises to be the outstanding battle of the season on a local gridiron.

Marquette will meet the University of North Dakota, old rivals, here next Saturday, Nov. 20, and it will be Waterloo Camp day with the net proceeds going toward the erection of a memorial to the Father of Football at New Haven, Conn. The last game will be an inter-sectional affair with the powerful Oregon Aggies, who will furnish the opposition on Thanksgiving day, Nov. 25.

The Dakota Flickertails are coached by Ted Rockwell, the former Michigan quarterback, who beat Wisconsin a few years back with a sensational run after the Badger eleven thought that Referee Walter Eckersall had blown the whistle. His team started slow, but the Flicks have improved of late and hope to upset Marquette.

Coach Paul Schisler's Oregon Aggies have been traveling alone at a terrific rate this fall, and when they appear here Milwaukee fans will see one of the Pacific coast's most representative aggregations. Great advancement has been manifested in the game here, and there should be a near-capacity crowd on hand for the battle.

Tickets for the North Dakota and Oregon Aggie games are now on sale at the Marquette gymnasium, 1504 Claybourn Street, and mail orders are being received. About 15,000 watched the Marquette-Kansas Aggie game, Nov. 6, and an even larger attendance is expected for the Thanksgiving day clash.

OILSKIN PANTS AND THIN STOCKINGS TO FEATURE GRID GAME

New York—(P)—Old time football stars, whose raiment consisted of padding and more padding will rub their eyes in amazement when Syracuse takes the field against Columbia in the annual Thanksgiving day game at the Polo Grounds.

If it is wet, Coach Pete Reynolds will have his warriors attired in oilskin pants and thin, flesh colored stockings. If it is fair, Syracuse will sport new trousers and ankle high socks with legs bare from ankle to knee. The "folly girl" garb is the latest evolution of the football uniform from the protective to the speedster this season. Knute Rockne clothed his team in silk pants for greater speed.

Coach Meehan of New York University and others fell into line.

REMAINING GAMES

Saturday—Sheboygan vs Manitowoc
Thanksgiving—East vs West Green Bay

Coach Joseph Shield's Appleton high school grid warriors, idle in valley conference circles still can finish in a tie for third place in the loop race as the result of the East-West Green Bay game at Green Bay Thanksgiving day, one of the two remaining battles of the loop. West is a slight favorite for the first time in nine years, though in the annual fray between these teams, it's anybody's game until the final whistle.

Last year West had the game 3-0 with a minute to go and East deep in its own territory. A desperate 50-yard pass gave the East a winner, a marker and a 7-3 win in the last 30 seconds of play.

If West wins Appleton will tie the East for third behind the two undefeated teams of the loop, West and Marquette. However, the tie for third will be a three-cornered affair as the winner of the Manitowoc-Sheboygan game Saturday also will have a 50-50 mark. If East beats West, the Red will maintain third alone and give Marquette undisputed claim for the clear title. This also will tie Appleton and the winner of the Ship-Cair game for fourth in the first averages.

Manitowoc is a slight favorite to beat the Sheboygan gridmen.

PENN REPLACES TIGER ON HARVARD SCHEDULE

Cambridge, Mass.—(P)—Harvard and the University of Pennsylvania gridiron rivals of 20 years ago, have agreed to meet once more, and preliminary action of the Big Three is deferred for three years at least.

Pennsylvania, which has accepted a two year home and home series will replace Princeton on the Harvard schedule.

The Harvard schedule, now complete for 1927 includes Indiana and Purdue. Prior to 1905 Harvard and Pennsylvania played football almost annually. In 20 contests Harvard won 13 and the Quakers 7.

Princeton already has supplanted Harvard on its 1927 football schedule by Ohio State.

Sophomores vs Seniors

Showing a complete reversal of form over the previous afternoon when they lost to the Juniors by a basket, the Seniors swamped the Faculty, 23-10, Tuesday afternoon in the 1926 high school interclass basketball tourney, pulling the teachers from a tie for the top rung of the standings. The Juniors took the lead with two straight wins and no defeats by beating the fighting Sophs, 7-4, in a tight defensive battle. The Sophs, who have lost two tough games by one and three points, were shunted into the cellar.

The Seniors took an early lead over the teachers who were beginning to feel the grind of two days on the courts after so little exercise and so much time in the classroom and except for the brief periods the result never was in doubt. In the other battle the hustling Juniors took an early lead by a slight margin but the result was uncertain to the final whistle.

The battle was a great defensive fight which included plenty of tie balls, both teams fighting for the ball every minute. The half score was 5-2 and each team scored once in the last period, Schaefer getting the only basket of the game for the Sophs just before the final whistle by spoiling a pretty piece of Junior stalling.

No games will be played Wednesday and possibly Thursday so that the rested Faculty will be ready to oppose the Juniors as the last hurdle in their title struggle. The teams are evenly matched with the Juniors having a slight edge because of their youth. The Juniors must win to take the title as a loss will tie that squad, the faculty and the winner of the soph senior second place game, which should be another hard battle, for the top notch with two wins and loss.

Badgers Can Finish In First Division By Win From Maroons at Chicago

Staggmen Will Battle Desperately to End Season With at Least One Win

Madison—Mr. A. Alonzo Staggs and his Maroons will find it most difficult to break into the win column in the Big Ten rating this fall. Chicago has yet to annex its first 1926 Conference victory, and in their final attempt to edge out of the depths Saturday in the season's finale, their opponents, George Little's Badgers, will be anything but sympathetic.

The Cardinal mentors are on their toes this week, smoothing out the rough spots in the new Wisconsin offensive combination. Little realizes that the Maroons are always difficult to dispose of in the closing game at Stagg field, and will not permit his boys to ease up at all after the Iowa victory.

None of the outstanding players on the Badger roster were seriously injured in last Saturday's affair. Left Burrows, who was held on the bench due to an injury, will surely be a starter at the Midway, his last game for the Cardinal. Left, veteran tackle was not in shape to play the entire game against Iowa, but is taking his play regularly this week on the first eleven.

The 20 to 10 win over Burt Ingwerson's Hawks Saturday was gratifying to the 40,000 Homecoming grads, who, in true Badger style, have stuck with their team through the two recent reverses. Little, and his staff, deserve unlimited credit for revamping their attack in five days after the Michigan encounter. It was a perfectly functioning over-head attack, a series of smashing line plays and some clever cut backs that resulted in the three touchdowns that sent the Hawks' eyes back to Iowa City the losers.

Gene Rose and Joe Kresky, sophomore backs, played their first full games for Coach Little, covered themselves with glory. The first mentioned turned in as line an exhibition of forward passing seen on Randall field for years, and in addition was a power on the defense and a threat to the backfield. The second, Kresky, was making more than his share of tackles in the secondary defense, and gained regularly when called upon to hit the Hawk's line.

Crofoot was a splendid field general, moving them up with such deception that the opposition were taken off their guard on numerous occasions. Capt. Harmon played his best game of the year at halfback, going into the fray shortly after the starting whistle. Welch and Cameron were great at the ends, especially in the art of pass receiving.

GERMAN BOXERS GET APPLAUSE IN FRANCE

Paris—(P)—Four German boxers met with a spontaneous enthusiastic welcome by an immense crowd of spectators during the official resumption of boxing bouts between Germans and Frenchmen at a gala night at the Cirque d'Hiver Tuesday night.

The Frenchmen won four of the bouts, only one of the Germans was victorious, but his defeated compatriots received fully as great applause as the French victors.

Smoke a Lucky Strike and you will appreciate its difference from other cigarettes.

To begin with, Lucky Strikes are made from the world's finest Turkish and domestic tobaccos. Properly aged. Perfectly blended. Even if we stopped there, Lucky Strikes would rank as the best cigarettes. But in addition, so as to achieve three unique results, Lucky Strike tobacco is toasted for 45 minutes.

This extra process gives you:

1. Finer Flavor. Toasting for 45 minutes develops the hidden flavors of the world's finest Turkish and domestic tobaccos.
2. Smoothness. Toasting for 45 minutes removes all "bite" and harshness, hence never any throat irritation.
3. Freshness. Then the tobacco is suddenly chilled. This seals the flavor in and insures constant freshness.

Thus the toasting process is an addition. It adds a unique and distinct improvement to a cigarette that has already been made from the finest Turkish and domestic tobaccos. It is the reason millions prefer Lucky Strikes.

PEACE OF WORLD IN HANDS OF BUSINESS, RABBI DECLARES

Business Can Be Made Basis of International Amity, Rotarians Told

"The best asset any man can have is that of manhood, solid and substantial, to be kind, true and generous and have a just personality," Rabbi Samuel Hirschberg of Temple Emanuel, Milwaukee, said in an address at the weekly meeting of the Rotary club at Hotel Northern Tuesday noon. Mr. Hirschberg's topic was Business as an Ethical Force.

"Business is the purposeful activities of men," Rabbi Hirschberg explained. "No matter what the pursuit of a man may be, artistic, industrial, intellectual or otherwise, if he spends the major portion of his time, energy and ability in that pursuit, it is his business."

"I would not say a word deprecating the man whose purpose in business is personal, for gain or profit, because that is one of the fundamentals of business, but it does make a difference as to whether that business is legitimate. Neither does the pursuit of personal gain exhaust the purposes of business."

MUST BE USEFUL
"Another purpose of business is to produce or provide something useful to the welfare of humanity. That is a requisite of good business. Business must supply means for meeting one of the most imperative needs of men, action. Without action, plant, animal and human life will die. And business must be legitimate," Rabbi Hirschberg declared.

"Any business occupied with the manufacture, distribution or sale of any product that makes for the comfort, happiness of humanity and if these products are truthfully marketed and sold with a sense of giving value for value received, then the business is legitimate," he said. "But if the business be that of making or selling anything harmful to the individual or to society, then it is an illegitimate business."

"Some men make the plea that they must live and necessarily know no law. But necessity does not know the law that no man has the right to get his living from a business that is harmful to other men," Rabbi Hirschberg said. "There must be no discrepancy between the product and the advertising. There must be no hiding behind a mass of technical data that misrepresents a product and makes sales through these misrepresentations. Technically and legally the man who makes his living in this manner is within the law but morally he is a thief."

MAKES FOR FAITH
"Business that is honest makes for faith in the world," Mr. Hirschberg said. "The finest example of modern trust and business is the stock exchange where big sales were made merely by a motion with a finger and a glance of an eye. These things are

HODGINS RETURNS FROM CONFERENCE OF SEALERS

Featured by addresses by several of the most prominent men in the field, the conference of Wisconsin Weights and Measures officials held at the state capital, Madison, Thursday and Friday of last week was one of the largest and most enthusiastic gatherings of its kind ever held in the state, according to Joseph A. Hodgins, sealer of weights and measures, Appleton, who was a delegate from this city.

The program opened at 10 o'clock Thursday morning with an address by Harry Klueber, state superintendent of Weights and Measures. Other addresses that morning were delivered by Gov. John J. Blaine and D. E. Fitzgerald, sealer of Racine. A discussion preceded a lunch at Park hotel at noon.

Thursday afternoon the delegates met with representatives of the Oil Jobbers' association in the assembly chamber of the capitol. Discussions and addresses on Friday closed the program.

CORBETT APPOINTED ON RATE COMMITTEE

Hugh G. Corbett, general secretary of the chamber of commerce, has been appointed on a special committee by state traffic men to enlighten all shippers in the state on the effect the increase in freight rates, proposed by middlewestern sealers, would have on their business. The territory in which he is expected to inform merchants of the rate controversy includes Outagamie and 12 surrounding counties.

Other members of the committee are S. L. Foot of Madison, H. W. Gehring of Milwaukee, A. E. Solie of Wausau and J. Stanton of Chippewa Falls. Each man has been allotted a certain section of the state to carry on the work of the committee.

Traffic men of the middlewest are combining to oppose the proposed rate increase.

made possible by a fine trust and faith in fellow men.

"There must be a sense of mutual trust and belief in men, for good business," the Rabbi declared. "Business properly conducted rests on the foundation of trust. A good business man is successful because of his ability to repose confidence in his fellowmen. The life of business today is credit. If you would take away trust, the commercial and industrial world would topple into ruins," he declared. "Business can be made one of the strongest factors for peace between men in the world today," Mr. Hirschberg said. "Business has not been used for this end. If honorable and legitimate business and the knowledge of the men who operate such businesses were used in the right relation, a sympathy would enter our dealings with other nations and the mutual understandings which would result would bring about world peace."

"However business has been greedy, selfish and grasping, always looking to exploit other people's across the sea. If this business would be used to promote the welfare of the whole society of man, it could do much to bring about a true and fine international understanding and to promote lasting peace on earth."

RECORD CROWDS AT BIG TEN BATTLES

Sales Indicate Largest "Mob" of Season; All Games Interesting

Chicago —(AP)—The Western Conference football season is just about over except for the shouting, but Big Ten schools dusted off their extra stadium seats Wednesday in preparation for a record-breaking volume of that at Saturday's finale. Every available inch in Minnesota's big stands already has been claimed by fans looking for a battle royal in the second clash of the year between the Gophers and Michigan, one of the two undefeated eleven in the conference fight. Fans stood in line through the night when the final block of 4,500 went on sale and the pasteborders can't be had for love nor money. At Illinois Zuppke's men seem sure to draw a capacity crowd to watch the attempt to climb in Big Ten standing at the expense of Ohio, which dropped from the top by a one point victory for Michigan. The Buckeyes rule a slight favorite now.

The Wisconsin-Chicago game is an annual classic for their two home towns, and even with the eleven fighting to keep above the cellar this fall Chicago looks for one of the biggest crowds of the year. Both teams are in the midst of a change to radical shift in play, stressing the aerial game, and anything can happen in their meeting. Half of Iowa turned out to overflow the Hawkeye stadium once this fall and there are prospects of an approximation of the crowd when the Iowans seek Saturday to rise and spoil undefeated Northwestern's chances of tying Michigan.

Indiana's civil war between Indiana and Purdue is a crowd drawing attraction, and there as elsewhere, the final appearance of familiar stars is a feature of the closing day of the Big Ten season. Having turned back Mississippi A and M, Indiana is bending every effort toward Rumbleb Purdue and forgetting the rest of a disappointing year.

Notre Dame closes a midwestern year simultaneously with the ten conference teams. Rockne entertaining Drake before starting on the swing which takes the conquerors of Army first to Carnegie tech and then to Southern California.

Green Bay—The Big Bay Blues are in the midst of a stiff week of training in preparation for the Chicago Bears game at Cubs park on Sunday. Sitting in fourth place in the National league percentage table, the Packers are very much in the running for stellar gridiron honors and a win over the Halas-Sternaman combination would put Green Bay very much in the gridiron spotlight.

The Bears haven't tasted defeat this season and their only tie game was with the Eys here early this season. The Chicagoans have bumped off everything that has come their way and they haven't had a hand picked schedule either.

Rosatti's injured ankle has mended nicely and the broken bone in Jack Harris' hand has knitted so well that he will be able to feast on some Bear meat. Jugger Earpe, O'Donnell, Flaherty and Luberger will all be in there to mix with the Bears. These players were purposely kept out of the Louisville combat and the others that did face the Colonels escaped without a sign of a serious injury.

LAND O'LAKES MAY MOVE MAIN OFFICE

Directors Call Meeting for Nov. 22 at Rhinelander City Hall

Another meeting of directors of Wisconsin, the Land O'Lakes, Inc., at which time some city in the state will be awarded the main office of the organization, will be held next Monday, Nov. 22, at Rhinelander, a notice received by the chamber of commerce this week stated. Invitations from interested cities will be heard at that time.

Several months ago the directors decided the main office should be removed from Rhinelander. A special committee was appointed to act on the proposal, and a meeting was held at the Rhinelander city hall Nov. 10. Previous to the meeting notices were issued to the principal cities in the state informing them of the intention of the organization, and inviting them to send representatives to the gathering if they wished to make any attempt to securing the office. A definite guarantee of $5,000 was asked of each city submitting a bid.

Wausau was the only city to enter a formal invitation at the meeting, but its representatives did not have the $5,000 guarantee. Rhinelander also invited the organization to remain.

According to letters received at the main office, Wisconsin Rapids and several other cities stated they considered it unfair to "put the proposition on a commercial bidding basis," but this was a misconception of the Following desultory discussion in which Supervisor P. H. Class: "How does it get there?"

Teacher: "People who have the habit put it there. There are not as many people who have the chewing-gum habit as are addicted to coffee-drinking and smoking, however."

Class: "Why is that?"

Teacher: "Because nobody has ever discovered any way in which it is injurious to the system."

Class: "Do you mean to say, dear teacher, that people choose the habits which are most harmful to them in preference to those which are not?"

Teacher: "Invariably. The chewing gum manufacturers have made the mistake of advertising that gum is good for the teeth and digestion. They should throw out subtle hints that chewing gum will cause the hair to fall out and bunions to appear on the feet."

Class: "Stupid of them, isn't it, teacher dear?"

Teacher: "Very, my little dears. It is my view, however, that chewing gum is really a harmful habit."

Class: "How so, dear teacher?"

Teacher: "When you take a chew of gum into your mouth, the jaws are thrown into action. The stomach, observing this, waits expectantly for the appearance of food. You can readily imagine the agonies of suspense it endures for no food appears."

Class: "What effect does that have on the stomach?"

MAKE EXTENSIONS ON NORTHERN FUR FARM CORPORATION

Musk Rats and Chinchilla Rabbits as Well as Foxes Are Being Raised

New London—Extensions are daily being made on the Northern Fur Farm corporation to care for the stock of foxes which already makes up the animal personnel of the newly recently organized company. Musk rats and chinchilla rabbits are also included, the locality and general conditions being suited to the habits of these animals.

The supply of silver foxes was divided into two groups, but the private individuals for care. The multiplied families are soon to be returned to the farm and it is with this in mind that the new cages and guard fences are being installed. Each cage of women wire is constructed so as to prohibit the foxes from burrowing out or leaping over. Within the cages are the small hutches raised from the ground in which Mr. and Mrs. Raymond round out the daily routine of foxy life.

They are little little animals, longer and rangier than cats, with beautiful heads and eyes of cunning. The fox in captivity lacks something of beauty, something of sleek, groomed fastidiousness which we expect of the fox species, but the grace is there and the slyness and the lightning quickness.

Silver coated all of them the little animals vary in the amount of silver showing. Furriers claim that there is a difference in value only where the costume is concerned. Many customers prefer the entirely black pelt while to others the silver has its appeal.

No pelts are being taken at the farm as the first years are dedicated to stocking the ranch.

Through the marshlands small brown stacks of brush, turf, leaves and hay raise themselves to declaim the winter address of the little brown muskrats. Through the late autumn stillness the watchful one may now and then glimpse a pointed head propelled quickly through the water by an unseen body upon some errand, but when the final freeze-up arrives the tops of the little brown huts will be the only visible sign of the life which goes on beneath. A winter diet of roots for the little brown rat, and sundry swims in the icy water will keep him happy and contented.

Should he lack for amusement there is always the great wide world spread out above the ice and snow and Johnny Muskrat often goes for a walk from which there is no return. Mildly must be served—served with silver fox furs and muskrat coats. Higher education has made deep onslaughts upon the muskrat tribe, for college men and women adore the coats made from shining, brown and silver pelts.

Chinchilla rabbits as well as rats and foxes feel the influence of education for it is a stated fact that the rabbit, captured, killed and denuded of his valuable coat is sacrificed to make a fox holiday. Not so good for the bunny, but after all he has very little to say about it.

STUDENTS REQUIRE MORE SLEEP, SAYS NEW LONDON NURSE

Too Many Children Lose Sleep Through Excessive Social Activities.

New London—Following investigations into the activities of students of both grade and high school, Miss Loretta Rice, city nurse, on Tuesday made known her opinions as to the correct amount of sleep, good food and play time that should enter into the life of a student.

Miss Rice states that most students eat enough food, but not of the correct kind; that few students who do outside work such as housework, clerking, and similar occupations are able to do justice to school hours. She also gives it as her candid opinion that too many children, especially of the upper classes, lose sleep through excessive social activities.

Too much stress cannot be put upon the subject of regular hours for rest, according to Miss Rice, and with outside work there is undue strain put upon the nervous system of the growing child. Newspaper carrying was another subject touched upon by the nurse, but this occupation may not be entirely frowned upon if it does not interfere with the regular mealtime of the lad, it was said.

TWO STUDY CLUBS ARE ORGANIZED BY WOMEN

Special to Post-Crescent
New London — The formation of two study clubs, one for training the faculty of the First Congregational church of this city and the second for mothers of growing children who are interested in the problems regarding their own families, was discussed at a meeting at the home of Mrs. H. P. Freeling on Friday evening.

It was first planned to organize one club to be of mutual benefit to both mothers and teachers, but the interest of so many was involved that the best course seemed to be the two club plan.

The Pilgrim Teachers' Training class will meet twice a month on Thursday evenings at 7:30 o'clock while the Mothers' club will meet on the first and third Tuesday evenings of the month. All meetings of the teachers club will be held at the Freeing residence while the Mothers' club members will convene at homes of the members.

The program committee met at the library on Tuesday afternoon to plan a course of study program. It is thought that one meeting will be held before the Christmas period at which many phases of the work planned will be discussed.

BOARD VOTES $3,000 FOR BLACK CREEK ROAD

Approval of an appropriation of $3,000 to combine with a town aid appropriation of $2,000 for improvement of a gravel road in town of Black Creek was voted by the county board Tuesday morning.

Supervisor P. H. Ryan urged that the highway committee arrange to have such appropriations included in their annual budget covered by the 2-mill levy. It was explained by A. M. McClellan, member of the committee, that this request had not been filed until after the annual report was in the hands of the supervisors.

Jacob Lummerding, Kaukauna, voted "no" when the report was up for consideration.

It also was explained by Supervisor McClellan that such county aid is extended under an old board resolution which calls for a three-fifths appropriation by the county where the town donates two-fifths for road improvements.

RESOLUTION SEEKS LAW CURBING TAX COMMISSION

A resolution putting the Outagamie-co board on record as favoring legislation which would make appeal from the equalization committee's annual report possible through circuit court and into the supreme court was introduced by Supervisor P. H. Ryan at the board session Wednesday.

A movement to suspend the rules and take immediate vote was discouraged by Mr. Ryan who pointed out that it is an important question with the suggestion that a little "time be taken to think it over."

"In effect," Mr. Ryan said, "the report of the equalization committee merely affirms the figures of the income tax assessor or the Wisconsin tax commission and at present there is no appeal possible."

Action will be taken Thursday morning.

Markets

ACTIVE BIDDING AT OPENING OF MARKET

Mercantile Shares Rise in Anticipation of Large Holiday Trade

New York—(P)—Active bidding for mercantile shares in anticipation of large holiday trade marked initial dealings in the stock market Wednesday. S. S. Kresge opened a point higher on a sale of 5,000 shares and was in demand in the market. U. S. Steel, General Motors and American Locomotive were firm. Prices of pivotal industrial stocks swung back and forth in the early dealings, with frequent shifts in the trend of Baldwin, U. S. Steel and other leaders. General Motors has held to an upward course carrying with it Mack Trucks and some of the lower priced issues. Merchandising shares continued to find ready buyers. Miscellaneous sugar, tobacco, drug and specialty issues worked higher; but Crucible Steel, U. S. Rubber and Case Threshing Machine turned reactionary. Railroad shares were sluggish. Trading in the foreign exchange market was followed by a spurt of 7 points in French francs to 3.45 cents and a 22 point jump in the Norwegian kroner to 25.84. Sterling was unchanged at $4.84 1/2. Offerings by the professional element of a few specialties, particularly the chemical issues, Commercial Solvents B dropping three points and American Agriculture Chemical Pressure against the Pierce Arrow shares did not have much effect on sentiment owing to a sudden demand for principally railroad stock. Considerable strength was manifested by the sugar group and Radio Common and Preferred rose to new high prices for the year at 6 1/2 and 5 1/2 respectively. The renewal rate on call loans was continued at 5 per cent.
